WOULD CUT DOWN COST OF LIVING

TAFT PROPOSES RADICAL LEGISLATION TO AID PEOPLE.

President Issues Important Letter Addressed to Governor—Proposes to Reduce Cost of Food Stuffs by Lowering Farmers Expenses.

Beverly, Mass., Oct. 11.—Radical legislation in favor of the American farmer and consumer as a means of solving the question of the high cost of living was urged by President Taft to day in a letter to the governors of all the states.

President Taft proposes to reduce the cost of foodstuffs on the American dinner table by reducing the cost to the farmer of producing his crops. This would be done by establishing in the interest of the farmer a financial machine which would give him access to all the money centers of the world and afford him credit at greatly reduced rates and upon more advantageous terms than he now receives. The complete development of our agricultural resources which this would make possible,thinks President Taft, would go a long way toward settling the problem of the high cost of living.

"What this plan offers," writes President Taft, "is a means to secure this country greater productivity, at less cost, from the farms that are now under cultivation, and, above all, to give us more farms and farmers."

Co-operative Credit Plan.

The plan suggested is based upon the principles of agricultural co-operative credit now in use in practically every country of Europe. Uniform state legislation, in the opinion of President Taft, is essential to the successful adoption of this plan and he has invited the governors of all the states to a conference upon this subject at the time of the annual meeting of governors in Washington in December.

"Were not the interval so short," writes President Taft, "my conviction of the importance of this subject would impel me to invite you to a conference at a still earlier date."

President Taft bases his recommendations on reports submitted by the American diplomatic officers in Europe who have, since last March, been engaged in an investigation of this question and upon the special report of Ambassador Myron T. Herrick, who has made a study for years of the question of adopting co-operative credit in the United States.

"A study of these reports," writes President Taft, "and of the recommendations of Ambassador Herrick, which I am sending you, convinces me of the adaptability to American conditions of the co-operative credit plan as set forth in the organization of the Raiffeisen banks of Germany. The establishment and conduct of such banks, however, are matters for state control. I suggest also, the establishment of land mortgage banks under state charters, and the formation of co-operative mortgage bond societies along the lines of the Landschaften societies of Germany, provided that uniform state legislation can be secured to govern their organization and operation. As a later step, I favor the enactment of laws by congress permitting the organization of national land mortgage banks, to be operated under strict government supervision with the power to guarantee and market the guaranteed debenture bonds of the state land mortgage banks or co-operative societies. I recommend for your consideration the report and recommendations of Ambassador Herrick, now published by the department of state for general distribution.

Startling Interest Figures.

"The twelve millions of farmers of the United States add each year to the national wealth $8,400,000,000. They are doing this on a borrowed capital of $6,040,000,000. On this sum they pay annually interest charges of $510,000,000. Counting commissions and renewal charges the interest rate paid by the farmer of this country is averaged at 8½ per cent, as compared to a rate of 4½ to 3½ per cent paid by the farmer, for instance, of France or Germany.

"Again, the interest rate paid by the American farmer is considerably higher than that paid by our industrial corporations, railroads, or municipalities. eYt, I think, it will be admitted that the security offered by the farmer in his farm lands is quite as sound as that offered by industrial corporations. Why, then, will not the investor furnish the farmer with money at as advantageous rates as he is willing to supply it to the industrial corporations? Obviously, the advantage enjoyed by the industrial corporation lies in the financial machinery at its command, which permits it to place its offer before the investor in a more attractive and more readily negotiable form. The farmer lacks this machinery, and, lacking it, he suffers unreasonably. This is not theory.

"But the advantages to be gained by the adoption of this plan go beyond the direct saving in interest charges to the farmer. The great necessity which prompted the establishment and extension advancing increases in the cost of foodstuffs, brought about by the inevitable increase in consumption and the failure of the long-drained soil to afford a corresponding increase in production. That problem faces the people of this country today—not in so severe a form as it threatened the older countries of Europe, but, still, as a great and pressing economic problem.

The European Way.

"In Europe this problem has been successfully met, first, by reducing the cost to the farmer of producing his crops and, secondly, by increasing his production through the adoption of improved methods of cultivation. Both the federal and state governments in this country have done much to afford the farmers instruction in improved agricultural methods. But it still remains for us to reduce the cost of the farmer's production by affording him the necessary capital for the exploitation of his soil upon the most advantageous terms. He must be afforded the money necessary for him to adopt improved methods. It must be made profitable for him to place every acre of his ground under cultivation. This offers the consumer relief from the increasing cost of foodstuffs."

President Taft strongly deprecates any idea of establishing cooperative credit in the United States through the support of government subsidies.

"We must establish a credit system of, for, and by the farmers of the United States," he writes. "The country enjoys today great prosperity, the factories are busy, the workingmen are employed, and everywhere the wheels of industry hum. The farmer shares in this general prosperity. The proposal which I make is not to subsidize the American farmer. Fortunately for the country he does not need it, nor would he accept it."

Sounds Warning Note.

President Taft warns the governors that in this plan, as in all financial schemes, there is room for harmful exploitation for personal gain.

"The most essential point to bear in mind is the need for the assumption by the federal and state governments of the responsibility for economically and honestly conducted institutions. Such assumption is the essential precedent for obtaining the confidence of the American as well as the European investing public."

If this safeguard is given the farm-land banks President Taft is convinced that he can secure the farmers a market for their mortgage loans not only in all of the big money centers of this country but also on the exchanges of Europe and thus afford the American farmer the capital necessary for the full exploitation of the entire agricultural resources of this country.

New York, Oct. 11.—The first testimony implicating Charles Becker in the murder of Herman Rosenthal was given at today's session of the trial of the former police officer accused of instigating the murder of the gambler. It was testified by Maurice Luban, a hanger-on of the underworld, that Becker had said to Jack Rose about three weeks before the murder, "if that—Rosenthal is not croaked, I will croak him myself."

Luban who also was an eye-witness of the murder identified in court today "Gyp the Blood and "Lefty Louie" as two of the men who fired the shots that killed Rosenthal, and William Shapiro as driver of the murder car. "Gyp" and "Lefty" he had known for more than a year he said, and he also swore that "Dago Frank" was in the group when the shots were fired.

On the stand Luban said he heard Becker utter his alleged death threat against Rosenthal in the steam room of the LaFayette baths, and that he stood within two or three feet of the police officer at the time.

The testimony of Luban closely corroborated stories told by other witnesses.

TWO SUBMARINE SEAMEN DROWNED.

Swept Off U. S. Submarine F-1 by Giant Wave—Craft Swept Aground

Watsonville, Calif., Oct. 11.—G. A. Schroeder of Milwaukee and T. J. Turbett of Newark, N. J., seamen on board the United States submarine F-1, were drowned to day when a giant wave swept over the little craft which later went aground near Port Watson. The extent of the damage to the submarine could not be determined. Low tide left it upright in the sand in three feet of water.

Schroeder and Turbett were on watch at daybreak with another seaman named "Blinky" when a rising sea tore the submarine from its moorings to a buoy. Before the seamen could get control of the steering gear the deck was engulfed in a wave and Schroeder and Turbett were carried overboard.

The thirteen remaining members of the crew fought for six hours to save the craft from being beached. When it was seen that the vessel was being driven inward it was abandoned and a few minutes later the little diver rammed her nose into the sand. A tug sent from the Mare Island navy yard will convey the submarine to Mare Island navy yards for repairs. There is now about three feet of water in the hold.

F-1 is the holder of the world's record for submarine diving, having gone down 283 feet in San Francisco bay Sept. 15, 1912.

VERDICT RENDERED IN BOYCOTT CASE

LOEWE & CO. AWARDED DAMAGES IN SUM OF EIGHTY THOUSAND DOLLARS.

Plaintiffs Are Members of United Hatters Union and Legal Battle Has Run Course of Nine Years—Total Damages Under Anti-Trust Law Will Be $240,000—Another Appeal May Be Taken.

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 11.—A verdict for $80,000 and costs were awarded for the plaintiffs, D. E. Loewe & Co. of Danbury, against members of the United Hatters union of North America in the United States district court to night. Under the Sherman anti-trust law this award will be trebbled making the total amount $240,000.

It took the jury four hours to reach the decision, most of the time being spent in examining the expense account of the plaintiffs. The verdict is for the full amount sought.

Case Nine Years in Court.

This already famous case has been before the court for ninen years, during which time it has gone to the United States court of appeals twice and once to the United States supreme court. In the first jury trial three years ago the award for the plaintiff was $222,000.

Steps were begun to night by the defense to appeal the case again.

Suit was first brought in 1902 against 240 members of the United Hatters of North America residing in this state, and was based upon the allegation that a conspiracy existed to injure the business of the plaintiff because he declined to unionize his factory. During both trials evidence was presented aiming to show that certain labor unions had instituted a boycott against the plaintiff's business. Soon after the suit was brought the American Federation of Labor decided to get behind the defendants and to reimburse them against any loss. The Anti-Boycott Society of Amecia was behind the plaintiff, so the litigation developed into a legal battle between these two bodies.

Labor Leaders Testified.

During the recent trial President Samuel Gompers of the Federation of Labor; John Mitchell, Frank Morrison and other noted labor leaders were called as witnesses by the defense and they all testified that no boycott had been declared against the plaintiff's products.

In his charge to the jury Judge James L. Martin pointed out that the action was based on the Sherman anti-trust act and declared that if the jurors found there had been a plot to boycott the plaintiff's trade in other states to influence the company to unionize its factory and such boycotting was actually resorted to, then the plaintiff was entitled to such damages as had been suffered in the execution of the plot.

TRADE CONTINUES AT RAPID PACE

ACTUAL BUOYANCY PREVAILS IN IRON AND STEEL.

Jobbers and Manufacturers Are Enjoying More Business Than Has Been Known in Years—War Outbreak Creates no Uneasiness.

New York, Oct. 11.—Bradstreets' tomorrow will say:

Trade movements continue to run at a fairly rapid pace. Jobbers and manufacturers in most parts of the country are enjoying more business than has been known in years, various lines report unprecedented sales and shipping departments in the principal centers are being rushed in order to cope with insistent demands for deliveries. Re-orders from retail dealers are of noteworthy proportions, mail orders in a host of lines attract attention and road salesmen evidently do not have to do much soliciting in order to get business. The most significant features of the entire situation are the apparent disregard shown for political developments, the heavy consumption of all kinds of goods, the scarcity of stocks in first hands and the well-sold ahead condition of textile mills as well as steel plants, all of which create the impression that the country is reflecting the results of under-production of manufactured products, supplies of various kinds of which fall short of requirements. In fact, belated buyers are finding that various staple textiles are by no means plentiful and that those who deferred making purchases until the last hour are likely to have to wait for deliveries. Jobbers have experienced an exceptionally good degree of activity, particularly those of the middle west and spring wheat northwest.

Business failures in the United States for the week ending Oct. 10 were 273 against 268 last week, 212 in the like week of 1911, 223 in 1910, 220 in 1909 and 244 in 1908.

R. G. Dun's Review.

New York, Oct. 11.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade will say:

In every section and in every branch of trade activity in production now prevails. It is notable that in the principal trades and especially in iron and steel, actual buoyancy appears and the demand is so keen that it tests the capacity of productive and transporting facilities. Shortage of cars and labor and in some cases even shortage of plant capacity are now the most embarassing problems confronting business men, and besides these difficulties the controversies and issues which not long ago seemed so omnious are now viewed with diminishing concern. Even the outbreak of war in Europe creates no uneasiness on this side of the water. In iron and steel the record continues that of a demand for prompt delivery outrunning the capacity of the mills. The railroads are buying heavily, for their transportation facilities must be expanded in order that they may be able to move the unprecedented crops and carry the traffic of a thoroughly awakened domestic commerce.

Conditions in the drygoods trade, both present and prospective, are satisfactory.

Woolen and worsted business continues exceptionally good, nearly all the large mills have business booked into next year in substantial volume. Trade in footwear continues to expand. The volume of supplementary fall business is exceptionally heavy and spring orders are more numerous.

Witnesses in Dynamiting Conspiracy Case Testify Concerning Movements of McNamara, Schmitt, Caplan and Tveitmoe.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 11—"J. B. Bryce, Chicago," the name James B. McNamara used to disguise his intention, his cause explosions on the Pacific coast and particularly in Los Angeles, Calif., formed an important point in the testimony at the dynamite conspiracy trial today. Attempting to sustain its contention that the explosions were part of a conspiracy for the illegal inter-state shipment of dynamite, involving the forty-five men now on trial, the government indicated it would go thoroughly into the explosions in the west, possibly throwing light in the mysterius disappearances of F. A. Schmitt and David Caplan, accused as accomplices of McNamara. Caplan and Schmitt were indicted in Los Angeles county on a charge of murder, but they never were discovered. Government agents have received information that Caplan was killed. Witnesses reading from hotel registers testified concerning the movement of McNamara, Schmitt, Caplan and Olaf A. Tveitmoe, of San Francisco. From the time he arrived in San Francisco, August 19, 1910 until he left Los Angeles a few hours before the Los Angeles Times explosion, McNamara's whereabouts, with the exception of a few nights, were accounted for by the name "Bryce" written on the register. Besides this testimony Henry Debberaham identified a photograph of Jas. B. McNamara as having been the "F. Sullivan" who registered at a Chicago hotel about the time an attempt was made to blow up a plant in South Chicago in February, 1911. Hotel clerks from Toledo, Pittsburg, Boston, Cincinnati and other cities testified as to Ortie E. McManigal's visit to these places at times when he was a member of the "dynamiting crew."

VOTE TO RAISE FUND FOR WOMANS COLLEGE

Business Men Think Trustees Should Begin Campaign—Dr. Hancher Gives Surprising Figures—Jacksonville Has Given but $30,000 to the College in Nineteen Years.

At 11 o'clock Friday morning a number of business men and trustees of Illinois Woman's college met with Dr. Hancher, representative of the Methodist board of education to consider the situation that faces Illinois Woman's college. As before stated the college to meet the standardization demands of the board must have a clear endowment fund of $100,000 by June 1st next.

Explained Board's Order.

Dr. Hancher in a very clear and sucuicnct way explained why the board had promulgated the order and showed that it was necessary if colleges are to live and prosper and to do the work of highest efficiency. To meet the required conditions, to clear up all building indebtedness and to have the $100,000 the Woman's college must raise a fund of $180,000. Of this sum about $55,000 has already been pledged, leaving approximately $125,000 still to be secured. Dr. Hancher who is an educational expert and counsellor with reference to the raising of founds said that in other campaigns it had been the rule to expect from 25 to 40 per cent from the city and county in which any educational institution is located. Every man present Friday morning was impressed with what both Dr. Hancher and Dr. Harker had to say and it was the unanimous opinion of those present that the college trustees should proceed with speed toward raising the fund needed and that it was reasonable to expect one-third of the money here in Jacksonville.

Small Contributions at Home.

In the course of the discussion it developed that during the nineteen years President Harker has been in charge of the college that about $300,000 has been added to the college by gifts and that of this sum that not more than $30,000 had been contributed by Jacksonville people. During that same period the college has expended in Jacksonville a million dollars and is now disbursing annually about $150,000. In presenting these figures both Dr. Hancher and Dr. Harker made it clear that no criticism of Jacksonville was intended and that while the city had not given a very large percentage of the gifts that the reason was no doubt found in the fact that no special demand had been made for contributions. So much impressed were the college trustees and business men with Dr. Hancher that if he can spare any time he will likely be secured to aid the local committees in their campaign for funds.

A very good account of the action taken at the conference yesterday, the condition of the college and what it is proposed to do is contained in a letter addressed by Dr. Hancher to President Harker and the college trustees and in part is as follows:

Pleased With the College.

"This, my first visit to the Illinois Woman's college and Jacksonville, has given me much pleasure. I have heard about this college for many years, and have frequently read the skillful advertising of its competent president, I hailed the opportunity to come with delight, which emotion has been intensified in the coming and tarrying for these two days. The story of President Harker's dream and its realization thus far, in the evolution, development and promise of the Illinois Woman's college is familiar to educators and college administrators throughout the country. I shall never cease to be grateful that I have been permitted to come and see, where he has conquered, and how. To develop this property in nineteen years from a valuation of $75 to a valuation of $466,540, with a liability of only $56,000, leaving a net valuation of $410,540, is a lofty testimonial to the educational ability and administrative genius of the man who has achieved this result. To have turned over to the trustees in net profits from the earnings of the institution during these nineteen years, more than nine per cent of the income, or a total of $105,000, is a triumph to commend the administration of your best bankers. To have developed this institution into a real college, whose academic work merits and receives the commendation of the college authorities the country over, is cause for profound gratitude. The story of increase of collegiate students from forty to one hundred sixty, during the brief five years that you have been doing college work, reads like a romance. I do not wonder that educators are inquiring everywhere: 'How does Harker do it?' All hail and God speed to him, the thirty-four members of his faculty, and their more than four hundred students annually enrolled in all departments. I congratulate them and you, gentlemen of the board, that practically all these girls are pronounced Christian girls; that every new girl, except four, enrolled this year, became a member of the Young Women's Christian association at the first opportunity last Sunday night, is a story of religious status and life worthy of emphasis and appreciation.

Is Well Organized.

"I have looked with some care into the organization, administration, plant and equipment of Illinois Woman's college. What you have is secure. Your foundations are well laid. Your future is to make. The next important step in making your future is to guarantee, beyond question, your standardization. The authorities representing the State Educational association, the authorities representing the National Educational association, and the authorities representing he Methodist Episcopal church have agreed substantially upon the requirements for standardization of any and all colleges. These requirements have been presented to you before now and are doubtless a part of your records. Careful and technical inspection is being made, and will be made of all colleges, candidates for standardization, and the decisions will be reached upon the facts which the inspectors may find.

"One requisite exceedingly important, and demanding your attention just now, is the required endowment, over and above all liabilities. To meet that requirement, Dr. Harker has already advised you that you need an additional fund of $180,000. Already you have decided—as I understand—to undertake the raising of that money, and sundry substantial pledges, aggregating $56,000, have been made toward it. Therefore, about $124,000 must be pledged between this and June 4, 1913, to complete that fund, and make available the $56,000 already pledged, conditioned upon raising the whole amount.

"I have been looking into this matter with a view to counselling the best method of proceedure for procuring the pledges. In this connection I met in consultation at the rooms of the Jacksonville Business Men's association, at 11 o'clock this morning, the following named persons: William Newman, George T. Douglas, Thomas Hopper, W. E. Veitch, C. Y. Rowe, George E. Doying, Carl E. Black, E. E. Crabtree, John N. Ward, Frank Byrns, Harry Andre, E. B. Spink, J. W. Walton, Rev. J. W. Miller, Dr. T. J. Pitner, Bernard Gause, Mrs. J. N. Ward, Paul Fritchey, Rev. Arthur Ewert, A. C. Metcalf and Dr Joseph R. Harker.

Sets Jacksonville Standard.

I explained to them the nature of the standardization requirements, the causes leading up to those requirements, and the importance of this campaign at this time to the Illinois Woman's college, and also to Jacksonville. President Harker then made some further statements in detail, relative to the condition and progress of the Illinois Woman's college, after which the gentlemen addressed to him the direct question: 'What part of this $180,000 do you think Jacksonville ought to undertake to pledge?' President Harker referred that question to me. Whereupon I replied, that in view of the fact that during the nineteen years of the material prosperity and progress of the Illinois Woman's college, the city of Jacksonville has contributed scarcely $30,000 of the $365,000 added to your property values, I thought it would be quite reasonable to ask Jacksonville, exclusive of the president, faculty and student body of the Illinois Woman's college, to raise one-third of the $180,000, or a total of $60,000. This suggestion brought out the following motion: "Resolved that it be the sense of the persons here present that the suggestion of the Jacksonville and Morgan county raise one-third of the $180,000 required by the Illinois Woman's college in the present forward movement, is reasonable and fair, and that the city of Jacksonville and Morgan county can and should undertake immediately to pledge that sum, and that it is wise to undertake to complete the campaign in the near future."

To this resolution every person present, except President Harker, Mr. Metcalf, and Mr. Ewert, spoke. They were not called, because of their official connection with the college administration. Every speech was favorable to the resolution, and when the last one had spoken, the resolution was unanimously adopted.

Now, gentlemen, in view of your action already taken some months since, and in view of this cordial and earnest expression, affirmation and declaration, I suggest that no time be lost in putting forward your campaign. (Here Dr. Harker outlined his plan for committees, etc.)

Urges Early Action.

Should you consider favorably these recommendations, I suggest that today you request the Business Men's association to appoint a committee of three to co-operate with a like committee from your board, and that that joint committee invite every minister of the city to join it in an advisary way, and that it select at least one layman from each of the churches of the city to join in the same way. The three members of your board and the three members of the Business Men's association, with President Harker, should constitute the executive committee. A little later this organization will extend to every precinct in the county, and teams—perhaps a dozen, should be organized to canvass the city and

LAST RITES FOR REV. J. L. WYLDER

Funeral Held at Residence Friday Afternoon Largely Attended—Interment in Diamond Grove Cemetery.

Funeral services for Rev. J. L. Wylder were held at the residence, 503 North Church street, Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in charge of Rev. J. W. Miller, pastor of Grace M. E. church, assisted by Rev. G. W. Flagge, pastor of Centenary church. There was a large number of friends who gathered to pay a last tribute of respect to one who was held in such high esteem. The Masons attended in a body. There was a great profusion of beautiful flowers which were cared for by Misses Louise Capps, Alice Wadsworth, Nell Taylor and Anna Hinrichsen.

The services were opened with a solo by R. M. Hockenhull, who sang with great feeling, and Rev. G. W. Flagge read from the scripture. Rev. J. W. Miller then gave a sermon in which he paid the life of the deceased a high tribute. He took for his text: Revelations 14-13, which strongly emphasizes the influences of a good life, and he said in part:

"It is almost impossible to rightly estimate the influence of a good life. Moral influence is a silent yet potent force. There is an atmosphere about the church that makes it different from all other buildings. There is an atmosphere about the home. There is a room where mother died into which we all enter with quiet tread. Here is 'Holy Ground.' It is in this respect that men differ.

"When we seek for the secret of the matchless life of Christ we find it radiant with the influence of his divine character. It was said of Him, 'Never a man spake like this man,' but the greater truth is, never a man lived like this man. What was it that placed Jesus Christ on the peerless summit of human living? Not circumstances. There are few for whom circumstances have done less than for him. He was the son of a carpenter, untravelled, without opportunity for learning or culture. We say His teachings made him great, yet remember that the New Testament contains more of the teachings of Paul than of Christ.

"There is an abiding quality about the moral influence of a good life. All else will fade and crumble. It is the true monument of a human life. I believe in monuments but I would not build them in cemeteries. Build them in the city. The place for Garfield's monument is not on Arlington Height, five miles from the city of Cleveland, but on the corner of her greatest thoroughfare. The place for Lincoln's monument is not miles away in a rock field to be visited by tourists. It's place is in the heart of the capital of the state that gave him to the nation.

"But there is a monument finer than Italian marble, more enduring than New England's granite that you and I may build. No money can erect it, no artist's mallet and chisel can shape its noble outline or carve upon its surface its golden testimony to the ages.

"Such a life was that of Rev. Mr. Wylder and such was the monument that he built. He was a man of splendid courage. He faced the difficulties and labors of life with an unflinching spirit. His life abounded in good cheer. The bright and happy story was always ready for illustration. He was loyal to the truth as he saw it. Through all these years in every relationship he lived a stainless life. Words cannot express what he has been to the church. In his home he was a knight honored and loved by all. In his character he has left wife and children, the richest possible heritage."

At the conclusion of Mr. Miller's sermon Dr. J. R. Harker gave a talk which was followed by a fervent prayer by Rev. Anderson Orr of Roodhouse. Mr. Orr, a blind man, was present when Rev. Mr. Wylder was converted, baptised the deceased, his wife and children, and for many years has been a close friend of the family.

The reading of an historical sketch by Rev. Mr. Miller concluded the services at the house and the remains were taken to Diamond Grove cemetery, where the committment services were in charge of the Masons, Rev. F. A. McCarty acting as worshipful master and Julius Strawn as chaplain. Benediction was offered by Rev. Mr. Miller.

The honorary bearers were Capt. Philip Lee, S. R. Capps, Charles Capps, Judge M. T. Layman, Judge O. P. Thompson, W. E. Veitch, J. A. Ayers and W. W. Holliday, and the active bearers were E. E. Crabtree, T. P. Carter, Abe Weihl, W. L. Simpson, H. H. Bancroft and C. A. Barnes, all members of the Masonic fraternity.

AT THE RAND.

On account of the inclement weather only a fair sized audience was present at the Grand opera house Friday evening to witness the performance of Neil O'Brien and his great American minstrels, but those who were present were not in the least reluctant to express their view that the minstrel was one of the best that has been seen in this city for some years. Billy Van, Eddie Mazier, and Neil O'Brien were among the stars in the production and they were assisted by a very competent cast. The senic production was quite elaborate and the whole performance left nothing to be desired.

IMPROVING PARK HOUSE.

Workmen were engaged Friday in bracing the walls of the Park house, for the purpose of rebuilding the walls on the northeast corner of the building. A frame structure is built against the walls at this corner and it is said that this is all that has kept the old, badly cracked walls from bulging out. The building is the property of Captain and Mrs. Alex Smith.

RUBBER AND HUMOR.

A Closely Clinging Garment and a Laughable Request.

In 1839 Professor Emmet of the University of Virginia visited in New York with his family and while there received from abroad a pair of india rubber cloth boots. His son, Dr. Thomas Addis Emmet, in his book, "Incidents of My Life," says that his distinguished father was happier in his new possessions than a child with a new toy and spent most of his time standing like a heron in the water to test them.

Their shape was not such as would have fascinated Packelan, the famous bootmaker. They were made like a long stocking of coarse canvas, with a leather sole, and over all was smeared a paste of rubber which might have answered in cold weather, but which was sticky and ill smelling under a moderately hot sun. In very few articles has there been more improvement than in rubber goods since they first came into use.

My father took back with him a "raincoat" as a present to our old negro coachman, but he could never be induced to wear it in the rain, and when expostulated with his answer was, "Does you t'ink I's gwine wear dis new coat in de rain?" He never wore it except in the bright sunshine and on a warm day, so that when he got off the box at the stable it was necessary to take with him the cushion and remove his trousers before he could get his coat off.

I recollect as a child the first "gum shoes" in use, which were hideous to look at and most uncomfortable over a shoe, but which to the bare feet of the old negroes were a joy and a comfort. The first rubber shoe was shaped like a large sausage, and from one end along the side a piece was removed to permit the introduction of the foot. After the foot was inserted the elastic substance shaped itself about it.

They were always called "gum shoes." While a medical student I was present at the opening of the Girard House in Philadelphia, and I remember that there were printed notices at each entrance with the request, "Please wipe your gums on the mat."

THE OLD OAKEN BUCKET.

That Famous Moss Covered One That Hung In the Well.

Not far from Boston is located the well which inspired the familiar lines of Samuel Woodworth to the "Old Oaken Bucket." Every time the place is visited many new traditions are told concerning the famous old bucket about which people have been singing these many years. Having drunk deep of the sparkling waters between whistled snatches of the familiar refrain, how disconcerting it was to have the charm broken by learning that the original "old oaken bucket" was stolen shortly after his well known poem became famous!

The youngest daughter of Samuel Woodworth, the author, who died in Berkeley, Cal., often used to tell about the real old oaken bucket and of the sadness which came over the household on the day it was stolen. It seemed as if one of the family were missing. In this age of souvenir collection who knows but that some day the real old "moss covered bucket that hung in the well" may turn up in a museum or serve as a water tank in the show windows of some enterprising advertiser?

There is no other water bucket in the world so enshrined in homely, genuine romance as this one. Even the golden goblets of royalty and the treasured chalices of the crusaders have never awakened the universal and popular interest attained by the "old oaken bucket that hung in the well" until it was stolen and carried away in the zenith of its fame.—Joe Mitchell Chapple in National Magazine.

Grant's Graceful Act.

When General Grant was in Japan the emperor invited him to cross the imperial footbridge near the palace at Tokyo, across which none but those of royal blood had ever passed. General Grant accepted the invitation and walked beside the mikado until they reached the center of the bridge. Then he stopped, profoundly saluted the emperor and said: "Your majesty, I have come so far to show you that I am not insensible to the honor you would do me, but I cannot violate your traditions. Let us return the way we came." It was a graceful act, gracefully done. —St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Welsh Doctors' Odd Fees.

Welsh monarchs used to pay their doctors on a singular scale. At the court of the Gwynedd kings the physician or surgeon ranked twelfth in order of precedence among the household officials, and his fees were carefully defined. For curing a flesh wound that was not dangerous the doctor was allowed no other perquisite than such of the garments of the wounded person as were stained with blood. But for curing any of what were called "the three dangerous wounds" he was granted a fee of 180 pence and his maintenance during the cure, besides the blood stained garments.—London Chronicle.

ELEVATING THOUGHTS.

DEMOCRATIC VISION GIVEN BY WILSON

SAYS PARTY HAS KEPT FREE FROM BAD ALLIANCES.

Candidate For Presidency Made Speech Introducing Democracy at Cleveland—Talks of Free Trade Bogey.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 11.—"The vision of the Democratic party," which he declared had preserved it from alliance with and domination by special privilege, was the burden of an address her to night by Gov. Woodrow Wilson. He performed what he designated as a ceremony of introduction of the Democratic party to some of his hearers who "and not well acquainted with it," and after an explanation of what he contended were its principles, expressed the hope that the introduction had been successful.

Begining to Take Notice.

"It has been here all along," he said, "but you weren't paying any attention. You are just now beginning to take notice, because there was a solid phalanx, a solid organized rush line, between you and the horizon. The whole horizon was shut out from you by the towering figures of men who held closely and firmly together in order to dominate the situation. But now their lines are broken, a little bit of the horizon can be glimpsed and beyond these towering figures you see the great resurgent mass of the American people; and you see certain gentlemen, I hope modest gentlemen, trying to speak for them, saying:

"'We have been waiting for your attention for a long time; now will you be kind enough to realize what our ideals are? Will you be kind enough to open your eyes to the vision which has led us on through dark days for a whole generation?'

Had Broad Vision.

"For we would not have carried this burden of exile if we had not seen a vision. We could have traded; we could have gone into the game we could have played the role of patrons to the men who wanted to dominate the interest of the country—and here and there gentlemen who pretended to be Democrats did make those arrangements. I could mention some of them; I have known them. They couldn't stand the privation. There was too little in it. And you never can stand it unless you have some imperishable food within you upon which to sustain life and courage, the food of those visions of the spirit where a table is set before you loaded with palatable fruits, the fruits of hope, the fruits if imagination—those invisible things of the spirit which are the only things upon which we can carry ourselves through this weary world without fainting.

"I want to introduce to you the present Democratic party," he continued, "a party that has come through fire, has been purified, has been shown such errors as it has committed in past years, and is now absolutely and enthusiastically united upon a progressive program, a platform such as the whole country now desires to see carried out. That is the new Democratic party, new because it never grows old; new because the principles in which it is rooted and grounded never can grow old. This is the party which is now being questioned with regard to its purposes by the leaders of parties which are either breaking up or have not yet attained the bone and sinew of manhood.

The Free Trade Bogey.

"These gentlemen are saying, 'If you give power to the Democrats you will run into evil days. For one thing you will have free trade.' At that ancient bogey. How long will they continue to dress this thing of their imagination in the old clothes of antiquated stump orators? There can not be free trade in the United States so long as the established fiscal policy of the federal government is maintained. The federal governmen has chosen throughout all the generations that have preceded us to maintain itself chiefly on indirect interest of direct taxation. I dare say we shall never see a time when it can alter that policy in any substantial degree; and there is no Democrat of prudence or thoughtfulness that I have met who contemplates a program of free trade.

"But what we have been doing and what we intended to do, what the house of representatives has been attempting to do and will attempt to do again, and succeed, is to weed this garden of industry that we have been cultivating. If we have been laying at the roots of our industrial enterprises this fertilization of protection, we have found that the stimulation was not equal in respect of all the growths in the garden, and that there are some growths which every man can distinguish with the naked eye, which have so overtopped the rest, which have so thrown the rest into the destroying shadow, which is impossible for the industries of the United States as a whole to prosper under their desolating obstruction. We are going into our garden, therefore, and weed it. We are going to give the little plants air and light in which to grow. We are going to pull up every root that has so spread itself as to draw all the nutriment of the soil from the other plants. We are going to see to it that fertilization of intelligence, of invention, or origination, is once more applied to a set of industries now threatening to be stagnant, because threatening to be too much concentrated. That is the policy of the Democraitc party in regard to the protective tariff, as I understand it. The Democratic party has not proposed to change the established fiscal policy of this country, except where it furnishes root for special privilege; and wherever special privilege grows there American labor languishes.

The Difference in Parties.

"The difference between the Democratic and Republican parties, or rather between the Democratic party and those various other groups and parts of parties that are masquerading under all sorts of names is that they are willing to accept the discretionary power of individuals and we are not willing to accept anything except the certainty of law. That is the only thing that has ever afforded salvation or safety.

"I want to draw a few illustrations. There is the great policy of conservation, for example; and I do not conceive of conservation in any narrow sense. There are the lives and fortunes of the citizens of the United States to be conserved. Conservation covers not only forest reserves and forest cultivation and the safeguarding of water powers and mines, but it includes pure food and the public health and the conditions of labor and those things which government must see to minutely and courageously, if we are not to be sapped of our vitality and disappointed of our hopes. Now, the thing that stands in the way of the proper policy of conservation and makes it impossible to form that policy is that the government of the United States is now under the influence of men who want to control the forests, control the water courses, control the mines, who will not admit that these are public properties which we hold in trust for future generations as wel as for ourselves, and who are resisting the efforts of those of us who would extend the threads of law all through those industrial processes which thrtaten our resources and threaten our lives and vitality. * * *

"Now, for my part I don't want to belong to a nation, and take leave prettily to believe that I do not belong to a nation, that needs to be taken care of by guardians. I want to belong to a nation, and I am proud that I do belong to a nation, that knows how to take care of itself.

"It would seem as if America were about to see a generation grow up which must be a generation of employes, unles it makes up its mind to be a generation of masters. The great militant, fighting, triumphant American, the world has known and admired as a nation of offices, a nation of men who are their own masters, a nation of men who will originate their own processes of industry and of life, and we shall never see the day, I confidently predict, where America will allow itself to be employed and patronized and taken care of."

GOOD RESOLUTIONS

Those that make for comfort, convenience and economy and are lived up to—such are the resolutions to install gas in the home, as a means for lighting, heating and cooking. Certainly no intelligent man or woman today would be without gas unless they were where it could not be secured. As a matter of fact, people in the country realize so fully its advantages that they have imitated it by installing acetylene plants, which are extremely costly. However, for the small sum of $1.25 per room, you can have gas in your home. Why not see us today about this matter?

BOSTON	4	2	1	.666
NEW YORK	4	1	2	.333

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. — The Boston's were victors today over the New York National league champions by 3 to 1 in the fourth game of the world's series. The Red Sox now have won two games and the Giants one, the second contest having ended in a tie.

Thirty-six thousand people jammed in the confines of the Brush Stadium today, saw Simon Pure baseball in a contest that thrilled inning by inning. The two teams played in their true form, and the nervousness shown in the early contests was not observed.

Wood Stars in Second Victory Over New York.

"Smoky Joe" Wood shone today. The Red Sox players fairly hugged their star boxman as he walked from the field with his second victory over the New York club. Gray-sodden clouds screened the sun, and in the murky atmosphere Wood's speed ball worked havoc with the Giants batting. Only once was a Giant batter able to gauge the Boston man's curve for a hit when a hit meant a run.

Wood service was without blemish or flaw, not one man being passed, while eight Giants walked to the plate and then walked back again after vainly trying to solve the Boston boxman's mystifying drop balls and fast inshoots.

"How can we hit when we cannot see?" asked "Red" Murray, when he walked to the bench after fanning for the second time.

Boston Hurler in Trouble Only Twice.

Wood was only in trouble in two innings, in the sixth and again in the seventh when the home club's only run came over the plate. The sixth showed Wood at his best. Tesreau jabbed a hit to left and Devore bounced a drive off Wood's ankle for a base before anyone was out. The stands were wild with excitement and tried to rattle the Boston pitcher. But Wood was as cool as a Labrador iceberg in March. He caused Larry Doyle to pop out and then fed Snodgrass and Murray on quick-breaking down shoots making those Giant batters send weak rollers to the Red Sox infield.

Red Sox Score First.

Boston broke into the run column in the second when Gardner tripled and scored on Tesreau's wild heave. The second run came in the fourth when Stahl reached first on a forced hit, stole second, went to third on an infield out and home on Cady's drive. Boston made its third run in the ninth when Gardner singled, was sacrificed to second by Stahl, took third on an infield out, and scored on Wood's single.

Wagner Breaks up Giant Rally.

The Giant's only run was scored in the seventh by Herzog on his own single to center and Fletcher's two bagger to right field. A New York boy broke the hearts of the Giant partisans. He is Heine Wagner, the Red Sox shortstop, whose plays today robbed the Giants of three hits. Two of his stops of drives over second were made with one hand on the dead run. Then, half turning, he snapped his throws to first base ahead of the runners by a step.

With one run needed to tie in the eighth,Devore lashed a grounder past Wood. Thouands cheered as the ball sped by second base, for a hit meant a good start for a rally. Wagner raced over the bag, scooped the ball with his hand and snapped the ball to first without recovering his balance. The fleet Devore was out by a few inches.

Murray, Yerkes and Fletcher Also Star in Field.

Yerkes and Fletcher also starred in fielding plays, while Murray robbed Hooper of a three base hit at the beginning of the fifth. Running back to the concrete wall, the Giant right-fielder leaped into the air and clutched the ball with his hand. Tesreau did not get into his pitching stride until the Red Sox had made two runs. After that he tightened up and in the fifth sixth, and seventh innings turned the Bostons back in one, two, three order. The moist ball flinger was taken out only to allow a pinch-hitter to bat for him.

Many Strike Outs During Game.

There were thirteen strike outs during the game. For Boston, Cady struck out twice and Lewis, Stahl and Wagner once each. On the New York side, Murray and Merkle fanned twice, and Devore, Snodgrass, Meyers and Tesreau went out once each by the strike out route.

World's Series Receipts.

With today's game the players cease to share in the world's series receipts. The four games played netted them $147,572.28, breaking the record established by the New York and Philadelphia clubs last year when the players' share amounted to $127,910.81. The winning players this year will receive $88,543.37 and the losers $59,028.90. Individually each of the winners is due to receive approximately $4,000 and the losers about $2,800.

Will Receive Report of Both Games.

The weather man at Boston has promised the fans good weather for the fifth game of the world's series which will be played at Fenway park in that city this afternoon. While the official forecaster at Chicago has not made known his views as to the condition of the elements in that city for this afternoon the chances are very good for ball weather and the Cubs and Sox will make an effort to decide the tie that has been hanging over them since the city series started, this afternoon at Comiskey park.

The Journal's Associated Press wire will open this afternoon at 12:30 o'clock and a full report of both the world's series and the Cub-Sox games will be received by innings. While waiting for the plays of one game the plays of the other will be sent and in this manner the fans will be apprised of the action of the players in a very short time after the plays are made. As this is Saturday afternoon a large crowd will undoubtedly be present to watch the Journal's bulletins, which will be promptly posted in the window after they are received. Make arrangements to take one or two hours off this afternoon, come out and root for your favorite and remember that the wire opens at 12:30 promptly.

WEATHER UNCERTAIN IN BOSTON TODAY

Showers Are Forecasted With Extreme Cold to Follow.

Boston, Oct. 11.—Promise of fair weather for to morrow's fifth game between the Boston Red Sox and the New York Giants in the world's series was held out to night by Official Forecaster Smith. Showers during the day and early evening made the outlook for to morrow's game dismal, but later it was announced that while rain was headed east it might be delayed until Saturday night or Sunday. In spite of a fine drizzle of rain which fell this afternoon, the crowds which watched the progress of to day's game by the bulletin board reports were almost as great as those which have been out for the previous games of the series. Boston's victory was cheered tumultuously, "Smoky Joe" Wood coming in for special applause. Boston enthusiasts hope that Wood, who has won both his games away from home, may yet pitch against New York At Fenway park. Should to morrow's game be postponed it was thought that Manager Stahl would send Wood against the Giants on Monday.

MUDDY TRACK MAKES FAST TIME IMPOSSIBLE.

Heavy Downpour as First Heat of Fourth Race is Finished—Effort to Get Automobile Racers to Use Track Portion of Today, Met With Failure.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 11.—Rain this afternoon brought to an abrupt close the race program of the Illinois state fair track. Rain fell in torrents just as the first heat in the 2:20 pace, the fourth race on the program, had been finished, the purse being divided as the horses finished the heat. The 2:12 trot, free-for-all pace, the 2:09 pace and the 2:15 trot were declared tomorrow.

Tomorrow is the last day of the fair and an effort to secure the consent of the automobile racers to use the track a portion of the day met with failure. A muddy track made fast time absolutely out of the question today.

ANOTHER WORLD'S RECORD BROKEN

TEAM TROTTING RECORD LOWERED BY FOUR AND ONE-HALF SECONDS.

Uhlan and Lewis Forest Trot Fastest Mile in World's History at Lexington—Anne Axme Wins Three Year Old Pacing Futurity.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 11.—Another world's record was broken at the trotting meeting here to day when Uhlan, 1:58, and Lewis Forest, 2:06 1-4, owned by Mr. C. K. G. Billings, were sent out to lower the record for a pair of trotters to a pole. The original record stood at 2:07 3-4 until this pair of famous trotters made the mile in 2:03 1-4, thus clipping off four and one-half seconds.

The horses were sent away on the second scoring and it was evident almost from the first quarter that the record would be shattered. Not a break was made during the trial both horses working like machines. They were given a great ovation after the announcement was made that a record had been broken.

During the afternoon the season's record of 2:06 1-2 for a 4 year old trotting mare, held by Margaret Pettriss, was lowered one-quarter of a second by this mare. Hester C., a yearling filly by Silent Brook, also made a new world's mark of 2:11 3-4 for a yearling filly.

NEW YORK TICKET SCALPERS ARRESTED

Arrests Are Made Early and Operations of Speculators Are Limited.

New York, Oct. 11.—A dozen men charged with ticket speculating, arrested outside the Polo grounds to day were fined $10 each in police court. The operations of the men were apparently of a limited nature as most of the arrests were made comparatively early in the day and none of the prisoners were found to have more than a half dozen tickets. The large number of seats, 30,000 in all, available at the gates had left the speculators little opportunity to ply successfully.

HIGH SCHOOL PLAYS ALTON TEAM TODAY

Western Military Academy Will be Opponent in This Afternoon's Fray on Illinois Field.

Coach Buland's high school football eleven will have an opportunity to display their prowess this afternoon on Illinois college field at 1:30, when they line up against the squad from the Western Military academy at Alton. From reports the Altonites are snappy players and on their toes every minute and the J. H. S. men are expecting a hard tussle.

The local men have been doing some consistent practice, having had scrimmages with the college team and ought to be in splendid shape for the fray. The game has been called early in order to allow the W. M. A. men to catch the 4 o'clock train on the Alton. John Larson has been secured as referee and the other officials will be chosen to day.

The following lineup has been announced:

Center—Armstrong.
Right guard—Allcott.
Right tackle—C. Stewart.
Right end—Read.
Quarter back—Maddox.
Right half—Cannon.
Full back—Jackson.

The venerable John Wingler walked to town yesterday almost five miles which he thinks is doing pretty well for a man 91 years old. He is good all but his eyes and hopes they will improve.

FIELDING HELPS WIN GAME FOR BOSTON

JOHNSON, WITH TRIPLE IN NINTH, ENABLES SOX TO TIE SECOND WITH CUBS

WITH SCORE 3 TO 3 DARKNESS HALTS GAME AFTER TWELFTH

Contest Was Second Tie Of Series And Will Be Played Off At Comiskey Park To Day--- Lord And Weaver Knocked Unconscious In Eighth When They Collide In Trying For Miller's Fly.

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—With the score tied 3 to 3, the second game of the series between the Chicago American and National league clubs was called today in the twelfth inning because of darkness. The game was the second tie in the series, the opening contest Tuesday ending without a score.

Lord and Weaver collided at full speed in centerfield in the eighth inning when each was trying for Miller's hit. They were knocked unconscious and both had to be carried from the field. Lord quickly recovered but Weaver was in a dazed condition for several hours. His face was cut in the collision and he probably will be out of the game for several days.

Johnson, a recruit, who took Weaver's place at short, enabled the White Sox to tie the game in the ninth inning after the Cubs had taken the lead in the eighth. With Borton on first Johnson tripled, scoring him, Easterly followed with a triple, his fourth hit of the game and brought Johnson home with the tying run.

Neither team was able to get a run in the remaining innings. Cheney for the Cubs pitched in mid-summer form. Walsh relieved Cicotte in the ninth, when Manager Callahan batted for him.

The teams are scheduled to play again tomorrow at the American league park to play off the tie. Score:

ILLINOIS WINS OPENING GAME

LINCOLN DEFEATED IN INITIAL FOOTBALL CONTEST 6 TO 0.

Illinois college opened the football season auspiciously Friday afternoon when they took the Lincoln college eleven into camp by a score of 6 to 0. It was a stubbornly fought battle throughout, and played on a slippery field. At times it looked as though the contest would have to be called off on account of the rain and mud, but the warriors kept at it until the quarters were finished.

When the Lincoln college team lined up, there did not appear much of a chance for Illinois to score, as they outweighed the locals by ten pounds. Coach Harmon knew of the Lincoln weight but expected his men to offset this by speed. This was impossible, however, on account of the condition of the field, the grounds being really favorable to the visitors. Illinois made their touchdown in the third quarter when Jaccard took the ball to goal.

Illinois' forwards outclassed Lincoln's line, making it impossible for Lincoln to gain consistently through the local line. Illinois played good, hard, snappy football and in consideration of the fact that Karsh, Holmes, Tandy, C. Lukeman, McLaughlin, Stewart and Jaccard were in their first game of college football, the showing made was good.

During the first and second quarter, the play was entirely in Lincoln's territory, except for a few minutes near the end of the first quarter, when Stewart fumbled a punt on the 20 yard line. Lincoln carried the ball to within five yards of goal when they were held for downs. The second quarter ended in a punting duel.

It was in the third quarter that Illinois scored. It was made on this wise: Illinois kicked to Lincoln. They were unable to gain and so punted to Illinois. Illinois returned the kick and this was followed by an exchange of kicks, during which time an Illinois man recovered a fumble punt on Lincoln's 25 yard line. By a succession of line plunges and off tackle plays, Illinois carried the ball to Lincoln's five yard line. From this position Jaccard skirted Lincoln's left end for a clean touch down. Tandy failed to kick goal on account of the slippery ball, the score being 6 to 0.

Captain Howard Ross.

In the fourth quarter Illinois contended themselves with defense play. Lincoln resorted to punts, thinking that Stewart would fumble but he handled them in a clean cut manner. McMurray, who played fullback for Lincoln, was the star performer of the visitors. He was picked last year as the all round state fullback on the championship team. He is a wonderful punter.

Merriman (U. of I.) umpired a good game. He was quarterback on the university squad, but was injured last year and was out for a long time. Coach Webber of the Springfield High school was also an interesting spectator of the game.

The following is the lineup:

Illinois.	Position.	Lincoln.
McLaughlin	l. e.	Bunn

C. Lukeman	l. g.	Beaver
Tandy	c.	Roberts

The Illinois college second football team will go to Pittsfield today, where they will play the high school of that place. Both teams are quite evenly matched and a good contest is expected. Capt. Ross of the first team will accompany the squad. The lineup follows:

Right guard—Berry.
Right tackle—Blacketter.

STOMACP BAD? BELCHING GAS AND SOUR FOOD? WANT TO FEEL FINE?

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; your head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Diapepsin and in five minutes you truly will wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

VISITED ANOTHER COUNTRY SCHOOL

West Liberty Near Markham is Doing Good Work—View of Building and Grounds.

Friday morning the writer had the great pleasure of a visit with the teacher and pupils of West Liberty school near Markham about five miles west of the city.

The school building is located in a pleasant place and is centrally situated though it is so near Jacksonville that pupils prefer to attend school in the city as soon as they advance pretty well in the district school. Consequently the enrollment is not very large but the pupils are a bright, attractive company of boys and girls.

The teacher is Miss Mabel Hanning.

The directors are Allison Thomason, president; Albert Killam, clerk; John Boddy and with such a trio as that there would naturally be little wanting as far as their means at command will permit. The school house is in good condition lacking a bit of paint which the teacher said the directors were going to apply. She said they had opened their hearts this fall and put things in very good order. They have supplied the improved heating appartus which is of the furnace order and while it is in a corner of the room the teacher said it would be warm at the desk before it would be comfortable nearer the heater. The desks are good and of the latest pattern and the teacher said there was a good supply of maps, charts and general supplies.

What the writer would suggest is some pictures on the walls. They are educational and cost but little. The children of the land should be acquainted with the features of our great men, Grant, Lincoln, Washington and many more who could be suggested. There are historic scenes to which make attractive pictures and cost but little.

There is another adornment which costs nothing but time and that is shade trees. There should be more of these and the writer is willing to think that these directors will supply that lack before the expiration of their term of office.

As has been said so many times; these suggestions are in a kindly spirit and made with the desire to improve the condition of the country schools.

It is also fair to say that the coal shed has been fixed up and in general there is no appearance of the condition suggesting that a widow lives there and is away from home.

The visitor told the pupils something of a country across the seas and they paid good attention though the caller would have been pleased with a few more questions but perhaps next time he calls they will be better acquainted.

There was one number not down on the program but it was of considerable interest notwithstanding. As the visitor was leaving he crossed his lines causing a sharp cramp in the buggy when the rim of the wheel caught on the end of the metal guard against the side of the body of the buggy and seemed inclined to stay there. Two boys came out from the school and rendered most valuable assistance for which thanks are returned. The writer called up three times the residence of John Boddy but twice he succeeded in getting somebody else and the third tim got no response at all. He didn't say any cuss words but what he thought he will not put down. He thinks one or both of the boys belonged in the Boddy family but is not certain. Anyhow, boys, I tried to find out your names and you may blame the Bell telephone company for my failure.

Though the number of pupils is not large they have a great many studies. They are as follows, reading, writing, spelling, arithmetic, language, grammar, history, geography, physiology, algebra.

The pupils are:

Boys.

Walter Boddy.
Louie Boddy.

CHILD EATS TOBACCO; DIES.

Charles Dunbar, the two and one-half year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dunbar of Virginia, died Wednesday. The little child had found some tobacco and felt ill soon after eating it. A physician was summoned but the child gradually grew worse until the end. Besides its parents, five brothers survive.

SPECIAL PROGRAM FOR SOCIALISTS.

The Common Cause, an anti-Socialist paper, says of the Socialist movement: "On one day, Oct. 13, each and all of the 5,000 locals in the United States will be expected to have a public meeting to whoop things for Socialism. In connection with the millions upon millions of 16 page pamphlets issued by the national headquarters and the special editions of the several Socialist papers that have been prepared. This is the kind of campaign that Socialism is conducting throughout the world—not this year only, but every day in the week, year in and year out."

In line with the above an open, free meeting will be held at Socialist hall Sunday, Oct. 13, at 3 p. m., at which F. T. Maxwell, candidate for lieutenant governor, will speak. A letter from Debs and Seidel will be read. Miss Minnie Hoffman will render "The Walker," a poem by Arturo Giovanitti, the Lawrence mill strike leader. This is the poem considered by Father Hagerty of Chicago, the most wonderful poem he has ever read. Miss Hoffman will also render a violin solo. Miss Grace Hoffman will also address the meeting. There will also be music by an orchestra.

NO REASON FOR IT.

When Jacksonville Citizens Show a Way.

There can be no reason why any reader of this who suffers the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the pains and dangers of kidney ills will fail to heed the words of a neighbor who has found relief. Read what a Jacksonville citizen says:

Mrs. Dora E. Price, Plum street, Jacksonville, Ill., says: "A few months ago I was attacked by pain acros sthe small of my back andsome time after an attack of lagrippe affected my kidneys. The kidney secretions became unnatural, causing me much annoyance. I had often heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and resolving to try them, procured a suply at Armstrongs' Drug Store. Soon after I began using them the pain disapeared and my kidneys were restored to a normal condition. I wililngly allow my nameto be used in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

STATE NOMINEES STRONG EOR TAFT

Illinois Republican Organization Is Unequivocally for National Ticket.

Springfield, Oct. 11.—"Taft and Deneen" has become the cry of the Republican party in Illinois.

Led by Governor Deneen, the state organization and all of the state candidates have declared without reservation for the national ticket.

Governor Deneen, speaking before 1,500 Republicans in the hall of representatives, said Col. Roosevelt has no just cause for objection to the course of Illinois either before or since the national convention in Chicago.

"There were only thirty-four serious contests in the Chicago convention," he said, "and Col. Roosevelt told me so himself, asking me to modify the resolution which I offered to include only the thirty-four. I did not do so and kept the figure of contests at the number which had been agreed to originally by Governor Hadley and the Roosevelt managers.

Could Not Change Result.

"Those thirty-four delegates, had they been seated in Col. Roosevelt's favor, would not have changed the result. He would not have been nominated.

"He protested against the southern and the territorial delegates, but to my personal knowledge it was Theodore Roosevelt eight years and four years ago who prevented a change in the system of selecting those delegates, a change for which the Illinois delegation voted solidly.

"Then Col. Roosevelt demanded that Illinois bolt. I refused to bolt then and I refuse to bolt now.

"I am for the Republican ticket and it is my judgment, after a month of active campaigning in Illinois, that the Republican nominee will carry the state."

Approve Deneen' Statement.

Governor Deneen's plain statement was received by the throng with great satisfaction, apparently, by the throng of organization men who listened to him.

He spoke at the climax of a marked demonstration of harmony and enthusiasm which exceeded by many degrees the expectations of the state managers.

Mrs. Paul Wehling, 316 Smith St., Peoria, Ill., had kidney and bladder trouble, with terrible backache and pain across the hips. Just imagine her condition. She further says: "I was also very nervous, had headaches and dizzy spells and was fast getting worse when I took Foley Kidndey Pills, and now all my troubles are cured. Foley Kidney Pills have done so much for me I shall alway- recommend them." City Drug Store, J. A. Obermeyer.

BAD ROAD FIXED.

A few weeks ago the Journal had occasion to speak of a piece of exceptionally bad road. It was east of the county and in Lava Trotter's jurisdiction and now justice to whom justice is due. That fearfully bad hill has been fixed and several others too and while it is a bit late if the ditches have been made right there will be no more water running down and cutting deep gulleys in the very middle of the road so that a horse falling into it at night will have to be lifted out.

And speaking of roads a model piece is the Morton road from the C. & A. bridge on Morton avenue for four miles till the turn comes for Arnold station. That may well be taken as a model piece and the commissioners who are responsible deserve to be commended.

E. J. Howells, local manager of the Central Union Telephone Co., was a visitor at the state fair Friday.

OPPOSE VOTING BY MACHINES.

Law Permitting Their Use Is Attacked Before Illinois Supreme Court.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Alleging that 20,000 voters will be disfranchised, Representatives Morton D. Hull and Franklin S. Catlin attacked the voting machine law in a petition to the Illinois supreme court. They ask leave to seek a mandamus against the board of election commissioners of Chicago requiring the substitution of ballots instead of election machines as at present contemplated.

In their petition to the court they charge that the machines do not comply with the voting machine law or the general election law because they prevent the uniformity guaranteed in the election. They further allege that it is impossible to vote in one minute as required by the election machine law because the number of parties and candidates is so large that the machine cannot be operated understandingly in that time. In demonstrations the voters take from three to eight minutes each. Under the ballot system a voter is allowed by law five minutes to vote.

In addition there are four bond propositions and three public policy questions to be voted upon.

Relators show that there are many precincts in the sixth and seventh and twenty-fifth wards which have from 400 to 600 registered voters and that no more than 200 can vote intelligently and understandingly upon said machine within the 600 minutes during which time the ballot law permits the polls to remain open and that as a certainty over 100 to 400 voters will be disfranchised at each of the precincts where said machines are intended to be installed.

Relators aver that their districts normally cast heavy Republican majorities and that the effect of placing the machines in their districts and in others of similar character, is to disfranchise disproportionately the majority of voters in said districts and give an undue advantage to the minority candidates in said districts and prejudice the election of the relators and others. They, therefore, show that it is an unreasonable limitation under the law to limit a voter to one minute in the voting machine booth when voters in other precincts voting by ballot are permitted five minutes time and that such unreasonable limitation is a deprivation of their constitutional right to voting undestandingly and freely for the candidates of their choice, wherefore the machine voting law which authorizes a machine vote which will bring about such a result is in that respect unconstitutional.

The relators show that at least twenty thousand voters will be disfranchised if said machine is installed and the court is asked to require the board of election commissioners to furnish to electors in the sixth, seventh, twenty-fifth and other wards in the city of Chicago where they intend to install voting machines, ballots and ballot boxes as required under the ballot law.

The election commission is Democratic. It has announced that voting machines are to be used in all Republican wards. This would help the Democratic candidates because many Republicans would be deprived by lack of time the opportunity to vote.

Mrs. T. A. Towne, 107 6th street, Watertown, S. D., writes: "My four children are subject to hard colds and I always use Foley's Honey and Tar Compound with splendid results. Some time ago I had a severe attack of la grippe and the doctor prescribed Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and it soon overcame the la grippe. I can always depend upon Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and am sure of good results." City Drug Store, J. A. Obermeyer.

His Stomach Troubles Over.

Mr. Dyspeptic, would you not like to feel that your stomach troubles wer over, that you could eat any kind of food you desired without injury? That may seem so unlikely to you that you do not even hope for an ending of your trouble, but permit us to assure you that it is not altogether impossible. If others can be cured permanently and thousands have been, why not you? John R. Barker of Battle Creek, Mich., is one of them. He says, "I was troubled with heartburn, indigestion and liver complaint until I used Chamberlain's Tablets, then my trouble was over. Sold by all dealers.

"EVERY LITTLE OLIVE TABLET HAS a Movement All its Own.

Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver. Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of harmful impurities.

GENERAL MARKET NEWS

WAR SCARE BRINGS MATERIAL ADVANCE

Closing Wheat Prices Were 1¾c Higher—Provisions Advanced 10 to 35c and Corn Scores Gain of 1c.

(By Associated Press.)

Chicago, Oct. 11—Renewal of fear that the Turkish war might have a danger spread brought about a material advance today in wheat. Closing prices were nervous, ⅞ to 1¼@1⅝c higher. Corn scored a gain of ½@⅝ to 1c and oats a rise of ⅜ to ⅝c.

In provisions the close was up 10 to 35c.

Wheat speculators took the break in British consuls to being enough warning that Balkan hostilities might entangle some of the chief European countries. Bullish sentiment was increased, but the fact that the export business from this side was being done at better terms than recently could have been obtained, and that a substantial share had fallen to Chicago houses with connections at Duluth.

The market felt the influence also of disturbed conditions in the security list.

December ranged from 92⅞ to 93¾ with last sales 1¾ to 1⅞ up at 93½@⅝c.

Wet weather heightened the anxiety of shorts in corn, but wheat strengthened by European war uneasiness received greater attention. Leading firms absorbed all surplus offerings. December fluctuated between 53½ and 54c; closing unsettled at 53⅞, an advance of ½@⅝c over last night.

Active merchandising and export trade buoyed up the future market for oats.

December ranged between 32⅜@33 and 32⅝c, with the close ⅝c net higher at 32⅞@33c.

Provisions bulged because of the action of grain. Pit offerings were scarce. The chief advance was for pork, 20 to 35c.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

New York, Oct. 11.—The foreign situation loomed larger on the local financial horizon today. Over-night news from London and other European points was largely of an alarming tenor, and these advances were followed by enormous sales of American stocks in London, Paris and Berlin. The German and French capitals were centers of demoralization and London, as usual had to bear the brunt of their heavy outpourings sales for European accounts were estimated at 100,000 shares, but there is authority for saying that the total liquidation was much in excess of those figures as many large blocks of stocks were taken over by American bankers in direct purchase. Pertinent to this phase of the situation, it is argued that any further selling of our securities by the foreigners must seriously affect our credits aboard, even though a prolonged conflict in the Balkans should cause extra heavy exports of our food stuffs. Canadian Pacific the storm center of the market, declining 8 points in Berlin, closing with half that loss in London and opening here with a decline of practically five points. From this level it made some recovery only to sell lower with the balance of the market in the late afternoon and closing with a net loss of 10¾ points. Union Pacific was weakest of the leaders but the Hill issues, Grangers, U. S. steel and copper were only slightly less affected, the range of losses in some of these issues approximating three points in the last hour. Towards the close Union Pacific, coppers and steel and a few active issues were again urgently offered at further declines. Local traders evinced no disposition to cover contracts basing their operations on the belief that tomorrow's holiday here adds to the critical stae of the market conditions abroad.

HANDS BURNING ITCHING, DISFIGURED

Cracked and Swollen. Could Not Sleep. For 2 Years Nobody Could Cure His Eczema. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Completely Cured.

905 Lowell Place, Chicago, Ill.—"The trouble began by my hands burning and itching and I rubbed and scratched them till one day I saw little red sores coming out. My hands were disfigured and swollen, and troubled me so that I could not sleep. They were cracked and when the small sores broke a white matter would come out. I could not do any hard work; if I did the sores would come out worse.

"For two years nobody could cure my eczema, until one day I thought I would try the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used warm water with the Cuticura Soap and after that I put the Cuticura Ointment on my hands twice a day for about five or six months when I was completely cured." (Signed) Sam Marcus, Nov. 28, 1911.

Not only are Cuticura Soap and Ointment most valuable in the treatment of eczemas and other distressing eruptions of skin and scalp, but no other emollients do so much for pimples, blackheads, red, rough skins, itching, scaly scalps, dandruff, dry, thin and falling hair, chapped hands and shapeless nails, nor do it so economically. A single cake of Cuticura Soap (25c.) and box of Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are often sufficient when all else has failed. Sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address postcard "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Tender-faced men should use Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick, 25c. Sample free.

SCIENCE PREVENTS BALDNESS.

The Fatal Germ and Its Remedy Now Facts of Science.

It is the rarest thing in the world for a man to be necessarily bald. No man whose hair is not dead at the roots, need be bald if he will use Newbro's Herpicide, the new scalp antiseptic. Herpicide destroys the germ that cuts the hair off at the root; and cleans the scalp of dandruff and leaves it in a perfectly healthy condition. Mr. Mannett, in the Maryland Block, Butte, Mont., was entirely bald. In less than a month Herpicide had removed the enemies of hair growth, and nature did its work by covering his head with thick hair an inch long, and in six weeks he had a normal suit of hair. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

COLOR ILLUSIONS.

Curious Effects From Red and Blue on a Black Background.

If on a screen of black velvet placed at a distance of ten feet from the spectator large letters are pasted, some blue, some red, they will not appear to be at an equal distance from the eyes. To some persons the red letters will seem nearer than blue letters, while to other persons the contrary effect will be manifested.

To produce this effect both eyes must be employed. When one eye is closed the letters are all seen at the same distance. On opening the other eye one set of letters immediately appears to take a position in advance of the others.

The explanation offered for this effect is that a sort of stereoscopic illusion is produced in the eye itself, depending upon color. The image of a blue object is shifted by the eye toward one side and that of a red object toward the other side.

If on looking at blue and red letters on a black background placed ten or twelve feet away you see the red letters nearer than the blue, screen off one-half of the pupil of each eye on the outside and you will see the red letters retire behind the blue ones.

If you screen the pupils on the side toward the nose you will see the red letters advance apparently still farther ahead of the blue ones.

If, on the other hand, you naturally see the blue in advance screen the inner side of the pupils of your eyes and the red will come to the front.

Beautiful effects are produced with one eye alone when, instead of letters, red or blue rings are pasted on a background of the opposite color. Placing red rings on blue paper and using the right eye with the inner side of the pupil covered the appearance is that of circular red hillocks resting on a blue ground.

To produce this effect in its highest degree the paper must be held to the left and sloping in that direction. When the outer side of the pupil is screened the red rings will become circular trenches in the blue paper.—New York Sun.

A SYMBOL OF FREEDOM.

The Liberty Cap Dates Away Back to Early Greek Times.

From very early times one of the distinguishing marks of a slave, both in Greece and oriental countries generally, was the lack of any covering for the head. Accordingly the cap came to be considered the insignia of liberty, and when slaves were given their freedom they were presented with a cap as an emblem of it.

In Sparta the helots wore a cap of dogskin, and this was reckoned a badge of servitude, but upon gaining their freedom this was replaced by a cap of a different material, of another shape and ornamented with flowers. A similar custom was observed in Rome, where the presentation of the pileus, or cap, was always a part of the ceremony of manumitting a slave; hence arose the proverb, "Servos ad pileum vocare."

Also on medals the cap is the symbol of liberty and is unsually represented as being held in the right hand by the point. When a cap was exposed to the people's view on the top of a spear, as in the case of the conspiracy against Caesar, it was intended as a public invitation to them to embrace the liberty that was offered them.

The Goddess of Liberty on Mount Aventine was represented as holding a cap in her hand as a symbol of freedom. The Jacobins wore a red cap during the French revolution, and in England a blue cap with a white border is used as a symbol of liberty.

The custom which prevails among university students of wearing a cap is said to have had its origin in a wish to signify that the wearers had acquired full liberty and were no longer subject to the rod of their superiors.

The Bird of Death.

In New Guinea there is said to be a venomous bird called the bird of death. It is about the size of a pigeon, with a tail of extraordinary length ending in a tip of brilliant scarlet. It has a sharp, hooked beak and frequents marshes and stagnant pools. The venom with which it inoculates is distilled in a set of organs which lie in the upper mandible, just below the openings of the nostrils. Under them, in the roof of the mouth, is a small fleshy knob. When the bird sets its beak in the flesh of a victim this knob receives a pressure which liberates the venom and inoculates the wound.

Baby Seals.

Baby seals are at first snow white, which makes them invisible on the white ice on which they are born. Their eyes and noses are, however, black, and when the little ones are suddenly alarmed they close their eyes, bury their noses and lie quite still. It is only when they grow and begin to seek their own food that they become dark and sleek.

Too Full For Utterance.

"He invented a dandy story to tell his wife when he got home after midnight."

"Good one, was it?"

"A peach; it would satisfy any woman."

"Did it satisfy her?"

"It would have, but he couldn't tell it."—Houston Post.

ROOSEVELT DEFENDS HIS TARIFF RECORD

STATES THREE REASONS WHY HE DID NOT TAKE UP QUESTION WHEN PRESIDENT.

Colonel at Oshkosh For First Time Discussed LaFollette's Opposition to Him—Says Senator is Now Giving His Old Time Enemies Support.

Oshkosh, Wis., Oct. 11.—A defense of his record on the tariff question and an attack on Woodrow Wilson's position were made here tonight by Col. Roosevelt. Governor Wilson he said had been the hope of the Progressives, but had changed his attitude and "at present his sole chance lies in the support of the reactionaries."

Here in Senator LaFollette's own state the colonel discussed for the first time in his campaign the senator's opposition to him. He replied to Senator LaFollette's attacks by taking up a number of points on which the senator has based his criticism of the former president. He expressed regret that the senator had ranged himself against the Progressive party and quoted from a speech last year in the senate, in which Mr. LaFollette eulogized him.

"Gov. Wilson," said Col. Roosevelt, "is not a progressive at all; he is, doubtless unwittingly, as nearly a reactionary, as nearly a pure tory as we have recently seen in public life."

Gave Three Reasons.

Col Roosevelt said some of his opponents had asked why he did not take up the tariff when he was president. He continued:

"The answer is:

"(1) That when I became president, business had passed through two terrible earthquakes, there having been two complet and sweeping changes of the tariff in the preceding eight years. It would have been mere folly immediately to have begun to prepare for another change. The time for such another change did not ripen until the very end of my administration.

"(2) The fact that the country was not ripe for such a change was shown because there was no general public demand for tariff legislation until the end of my term of service, and the platform of my party did not take up the tariff question during this term of service.

"(3) The immediate and pressing demand for important legislation was for legislation of a wholly different kind. During the time that I was president there was no complaint at all that I was not doing enough. The complaint of all my enemies was that I was doing too much. Not since the close of the civil war were there in any other seven and a half years in our history during which so much legislation of so varied a character and such great importance was passed as those during those seven and a half years. Every ounce of energy and power at my command was used in batteling for these laws. To have taken up anything else would have been a physical impossibility. The chief demand that the tariff should then be taken up came from the great railway magnates and trust magnates who have always been anxious to use the tariff as a red herring to be dragged across the trail whenever action which they dislike is threatened—and Mr. Wilson is obligingly trying to play their game at this moment by a similar use of the tariff as a red herring to distract the attention of the country from the need of far-reaching and thorough going legislation in the interest of social and industrial justice.

Protection Only From Progressives.

"One word to you who are already convinced of the need of protection for American industries. Remember that you can get it only through the Progressive party. The Republican party is beaten—and hopelessly beaten. The fight is between the the Progressives and the Democrats. You can secure the triumph of the protective principle only by supporting the Progressive party ticket. You can secure good business conditions only by supporting the Progressive ticket.

"Mr. Wlson on the tariff, as on almost every other issue, either takes no definite position or takes so many conflicting positions that it is difficult to know what he means to do. Probably Mr. Wilson has no clear idea of what he does intend to do. He has, however, made sufficiently definite statements to warrant us in asserting either that these definite statements are not sincere or else that his action would be purely mischievous. The Republican principle of protection is right. The Republican methods of accomplishing the desired result are wrong. Mr. Wilson has repudiated the principle which is righ and endorsed the methods which are wrong. In an interview in Munsey's magazine for October, 1911, he complains bitterly of the methods of tariff making, saying that clauses have been inserted in our tariff laws as 'a matter of private business interests and the members of the ways and means committee of the house and the finance mommittee of the senate.' This is certainly true and it is to meet this very objection that the Progressives have so earnestly advocated a scientific, non-partisan business commission which should secure all information about the tariff and give the frame work for tariff legislation to congress. Yet Mr. Wilson comes out against such a scientific commission and proposes to continue the haphazard ways of the past—ways which led to exactly the corruption he described and which, if continued, will lead to exactly similar corruption in the future.

Wilson on Reciprocity.

"I want to call the attention of the farmers of Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota and of the northwest, especially to the fact that Mr. Wilson proposes free trade in their products. In an interview quoted he says, 'I welcome reciprocity with Canada as a breach in the tariff wall.' In the New York Times of Dec. 24, 1911, he says, 'I greatly regret that the voters of Canada rejected reciprocity. But it was only part of a policy. I was interested in reciprocity with Canada as the beginning of a new outlook and policy. Now they were a number of us, including myself, who at the outset supported reciprocity with Canada, believing that it had been made on a fair basis to al our people. But we abandoned it when he found that the proposal was exclusively to the detriment of the American farmer and that on his shoulders the whole burden of disadtage from the change was to rest. The Progressive party has come out with an explicit demand for the repeal of the reciprocity agreement with Canada. Mr. Wilson in the quotations I have given above equally explicitly states that he is for a revival of Canadian reciprocity and for its extension into our general policy with foreign nations.

"Mr. Wilson keeps asserting that the abolition of the protective tariff wil help us to grapple with our social and industrial evils, and notably with the high cost of living. Mr. Wilson, if fit to be president, cannot be ignorant of the way the tariff has worked in foreign countries; and unless he is ignorant he must know that his statement is without warrant in fact. Let him compare the course of economic history in England and Germany for the last forty years. England has been under a fre trade system during that time. The cost of living has steadily gone up and the conditions of labor have become so bad as to necessitate the most sweeping efforts at reform. But the experience of Germany is even more impressive. During these same forty years the economic conditions in Germany, and especially the economic conditions among the German wageworkers have improved by leaps and bounds as compared to what has obtained in free trade England during the same time. No small part of the German success has been due to the fact that she has adopted the commission system—the very system which Mr. Wilson ignorantly denounces. In the matter of tariff Germany has a thorough going, scientific well equipped commission of the very kind that we Progressives propose to establish here in the United States.

"Mr. Wilson has changed ground a great many times on a great many different subjects within a very few years. Sometimes for instance he appears as favoring free trade, sometimes as favoring a tariff for revenue only, sometimes as favoring a kind of basterdized protection. To the farmers of New Jersey he says that their needs can only be met by a radical reduction of the tariff, but in industrial centers he says that the tariff changes much be made so as not to disturb business. Of course these different positions are utterly incompatible and the only way to conjecture Mr. Wilson's real opinion is by a rough method of estimating the relative frequency with which he upholds the different contradictory positions to which he has committed himself.

"He likewise has committed himself to just as contradictory positions on the question of the use of commissions. Since it became evident that the Progressives were definitely bent on advocating a commission to handle the tariff and a commission to handle the great industrial concerns, Mr. Wilson has ranked himself with the other reactionaries against both proposals. But as late as Jan. 17, 1911, in his inaugural message as governor of New Jersey, he took the strongest possible ground in favor of a public utilities commission, advocating it in language which exactly and precisely applies to both our proposed tariff commisison and our proposed industrial commission. At that time, of course, Mr. Wilson was hailed as the hope of the progressives. At present his sole chance os success lies in the support of the reactionaries and he has reversed his former position.'

FAVORS ROOSEVELT.

People who know me know that I am no politician. I have never before attempted to write on the subject but this is a very critical moment in the history of our country; a time when every loyal citizen should realize the importance of giving, at least, a part of his time to the question, who, of the present candidates, are best fitted to direct the affairs of our country? Our government is 136 years old. When an infant, it was cared for and nourished by Father Washington and his cabinet. While in infancy it had many hard struggles for life but survived. When in its youth it got into a family quarrel, which took five years of time and the lives of many thousands of noble men to settle it and at its majority we celebrate its one hundredth birth anniversary in Chicago. Since that time she has prospered and grown to be the greatest nation in the world. In recent years has acted as counsular, missionary and benefactor to the other countries and islands.

I am truly proud of the fact that I am a citizen of such a mighty nation. If I want my country to continue to be great I must do my duty which will be to vote rightly on the fifth day of next November.

For over 50 years, the affairs of our country have been looked after by two noble old parties—Republican and Democratic. Recently these old parties have became corrupt, some of their aspirants for office have said to each other, now if you will help me I will help you and we will, by the aid of large incorporations, control the affairs of state. Some of our noble citizens have recognized the situation and are trying hard to set things right. As candidate for the highest office of our country we have three of our noblest citizens. The man who now occupies the place is a scholar, a man of integrity and ability as a jurist but not as a statesman. Woodrow Wilson is a man whom we love as a citizen, a teacher and a writer but we question his ability as a statesman.

Theodore Roosevelt, whom we both Republicans and Democrats and as well other nations of the world recognize as the greatest statesman of the world today and possibly of history. A man, whom we have thoroughly tested for 7 years as president and almost unanimously refused to permit him to retire from the office four years ago. This time when we were looking for a good man to take charge again, we asked him to come out as candidate but recognizing the political condition of our country also though a genuine sence of modesty, having enjoyed the honor for over seven yearss, he refused to accept. What was the consequence? Why committees from different parts of our nation waited upon him and insisted upon him, for the sake of our country, to agree to come out as candidate for nomination. After all this pressure was brought to bear upon him, he decided to come out. As soon as he came out and announced himself as candidate, others who wanted the office and still others who knew that their improperly conducted business would be interfered with, began to hunt up mean things to say about him until today, he is almost disgusted with life because of the lies and mean things that are being said about him.

Eight years ago in the Democratic national convention, a man rose in the meeting and said that "Colonel Roosevelt should be our next president. If the Republicans did not nominate him the Democrats should.

He, Roosevelt, is the man who started the investigation of trusts. He is the man who planned for and started the building of the Panama canal and is surely the man, (and probably the only man) able to complete its building and plan for its utilities practiction and care. He is the only man peculiarly fitted for our next chief executive.

Titbits of the Ancient Greeks.

As delicacies the Greeks ate young foxes caught in the autumn, robins and sparrows and certain kinds of fish snared by moonlight. There is a scrap of an old Greek comedy in which a cook boasts of frying a fish so exquisitely that it threw him grateful looks from the pan. A famous Greek dish was the Trojan pig, half of it boiled and the other half roasted. It was stuffed with eggs, ortolans and thrushes. The Romans ate snails—giant monsters—fattened until their shells held an incredible amount of snail. The kettle in a high class Roman kitchen was often shaped like an elephant's head. The water was poured through the trunk. The gridiron might be a huge silver spider or a skeleton fish.

Oysters as They Grow.

When young oysters first appear they are called "spat" and are no larger than a pinhead. At the age of one year they are known as "brood" and a bushel measure will hold about 6,400 of them. When they are three years old they are designated as "ware" and the 6,400 of them will then fill three one bushel measures. They are not ready for market until they are four years old, and then they have arrived to a dignity of proportion that if the bushel of broods has not lost any of its members it will require nearly seven of such measures to carry them to market.

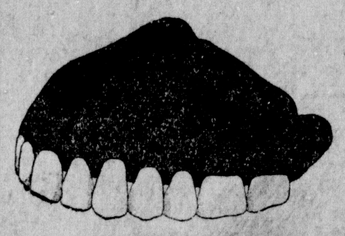

Uncle Bonbon.

An elderly beau had been delivering himself of certain forcible home truths when lecturing his nephew.

"Wonderful chap, your uncle," observed a friend when the old gentleman had disappeared. "So well preserved."

"I don't know so much about his being well preserved," growled the offended nephew, "but he is unpleasantly candid."—Youth's Companion.

The Poppy.

The poppy throughout the east is an emblem of death. In many parts of India this flower is planted upon graves and in cemeteries. Whether or not the idea was suggested by the poisonous character of the juice is uncertain. It is believed that the poppy was known as a funeral plant to the ancient Egyptians, for upon the tombs opened by Belzoni there appeared representations of plants which were evidently intended for poppies.

CITIZENS TELL POLITICAL VIEWS

SPEAKERS BEFORE CONGREGATIONAL BROTHERHOOD ADVOCATE THREE CANDIDATES FOR FOR PRESIDENCY.

H. H. Bancroft Presented Cause of President Taft—Dr. Morey Lauded Colonel Roosevelt and Judge Brockhouse Told Why Wilson Should be Elected—Audience Greatly Interested.

The Congregational Brotherhood had an unusually interesting meeting Friday evening. After a delicious supper supplied by members and the transaction of business the members adjourned to the lecture room, where ladies had been invited and a number had accepted.

A symposium of political talks had been arranged for and proved exceedingly interesting. Dr. A. B. Morey championed the cause of Roosevelt, H. H. Bancroft spoke in behalf of President Taft and Judge Brockhouse gave his reasons for favoring Wilson.

Back of the chair occupied by the president, J. P. Lippincott, was draped a flag with a grand history. It had been the property of the family of Dr. Sturtevant and was made to be carried in the campaign for Fremont in 1856. When the family was broken up and the remaining member moved away they gave the flag to Miss Georgia Fairbank, who kindly loaned it for the occasion and placed some beautiful flowers on the table, for both of which a vote of thanks was tendered.

Favored Roosevelt.

Dr. Morey said in part:

"Roosevelt was the last candidate nominated and as it has been said the last shall be first, so it will be in November. I am for Roosevelt for what he is; the worst hated and the best loved man in the country. Many editors, politicians, great financiers and heads of great interests are against him, heads of corporations and monopolies are against him but sober, thinking people are for him. The big interests think he is dangerous but others think differently. He is near the people. Shakespeare could say walk softly and carry a big stick but Roosevelt could come out of the greatest office in the gift of the people and say he had a bully good time. He is fearless and frank and I cannot help loving him. He is a living force and has made a place for himself.

"He is called vain but such a great man must seem vain because of his prominence in the public eye. His virtues are hidden under his great qualities. I like the intensity of his convictions, his modesty, his energy, his mastery of details. He is courageous as a lion and as gentle as a lamb. I like him for the work he has done."

Wilson's Candidacy.

Judge Brockhouse said: "Three-fourths of the eulogies which the last speaker has pronounced on his candidate will apply to Governor Wilson, so please regard them as said by me in his behalf. I differ from the last speaker though in what he says about monopolies. I think they should be regulated and not permitted to fatten on the people. He would not regulate them but give them full swing; Governor Wilson is opposed to this but believes in regulating them fully. I feel my case is so strong that though the weakest speaker, I am fully abreast with my eloquent and distinguished opponents. I feel that this is a sandwich served the audience tonight. On one side is the fresh, soggy crust, new and unbaked, the Progressives; on the other the old, dried crust of the Republican party and my cause is the good meat between."

I am for Wilson because of what he stands for. The Democratic party says special privileges for none; a fair chance for all. The Republicans believe in protection. The Democrats say the government has no right to make consumers pay that special monoplies may thrive. Special privileges have corrupted legislatures and officials and caused our greatest troubles. The Democrats believe it is unconstitutional to levy a tariff for protection. They admit the country has grown up on that principle and they do not believe in abolishing it all at once, but by degrees. They do not believe in secret committee work in congress, but in publicity.

Taft Represents Great Cause.

In supporting President Taft H. H. Bancroft said: "Some one has said there would be no landslide this fall because so much mud slinging during the campaign would leave no land to slide. Back of very man lies the party. The greatest experiment in self government the world has seen has been a success because of parties. We cannot have successful administration without parties. A man may die, but a party will live on. Hence I support Taft because I believe he represents the greatest and best cause on earth.

"And now let me read you something regarding him from an eminent authority. (Here the speaker read from a book an article praising in the highest terms the character and administration of President Taft; extolling his great achievements and success as a president and that book was the Outlook.

I need not point to the achievements of the Republican party. For a long time a group of Pharisees has been trying to wreck it, but it will come out triumphant. Well did the editor of the Inter Ocean say what Great Britain had accomplished through parties nor did he hesitate to designate the recall of judges and judicial decisions as twin children of anarchy. In my opinion of Taft I am in company with Lyman Abbott and H. H. Kohlsaat; with the peerless Elihu Root and Henry Cabot Lodge; by Theodore E. Burton and L. Y. Sherman: by the seven Republican supreme judges of the state of Illinois; by Senator Kenyon and Senator Borah I take Taft's record in the Philippines and at Panama: in his fight against the trusts and his successful administration. What are the facts in our land to day? Is it wise to change when all is going well?

Everything points to Knoles as the friend of the man seeking good clothes.

MESSENGERS OF DEATH.

Specters That Haunt Some Old World Ancestral Homes.

That historic German ghost, the White Lady of the Hohenzollerns, would seem to have more than a legendary basis. So far as I am aware, this ghost has never been investigated by properly qualified psychical researchers, but its credentials are too well authenticated to be ignored. The mission of the White Lady, apparently, is to announce the death of some member of the Hohenzollern family, and her most frequent haunting place is the royal palace at Berlin. She was seen as early as 1628, and since the time of Frederick the Great her appearance has been regularly chronicled on the eve of the death of the king of Prussia.

For the matter of that, there are not a few families whose ancestral homes, according to tradition, are haunted by death announcing ghosts. This is particularly the case with certain distinguished British families. The Yorkshire Middletons, a Catholic family, are said to be warned of approaching death by the apparition of a Benedictine nun. Cortachy castle, which belongs to the earls of Airlie, is haunted by a ghostly drummer, who beats his drum whenever death is near an Airlie. Two white owls perching on the roof of the family mansion are taken as a sure omen of death in the Arundel of Wardour family. Finally, tradition has it that the death of an Argyll is foretold in a most impressive manner by a phantom hearse driving up to the door.—Metropolitan Magazine.

Mrs. Peter Holan, 11501 Buckeye Road, Cleveland, O., says: "Yes, indeed I can recommend Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. My little boy had a bad case of whooping cough, some times he was blue in the face. I gave him Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and it had a remarkable effect and cured him in a short time."
